A Silent Army Landed From Its Funeral Ship.

Back to the Land for Which They Gave Their Lives.

Arrival of the Steamer Crook With the Bodies of 682 American Soldiers and Sallors.

New York, March 29.-The funeral ship Crook, having on board the bodies of 682 American soldiers and sailors came up to the quartermaster's pier in Brooklyn this morning and the work of removing the coffins was begun.

The coffins are extremely heavy, weighing 500 pounds each. They were transferred as fast as possible and started for their respective dostinations. Eighteen of the bodies were those of Seventy-first Regiment men.

At the pier the ship was met by a guard of honor composed of one company from the Thirteenth Regiment, on Governor's Island. In front of the pier entrance was a long string of hearses, for the purpose of receiving the bodies of the identified dead and removing them as rapidly as possible to the various railroad depots. The metallic collins pited in tiers were

BIDS FOR WARSHIP ARMOR.

Navy Department Advertises for 24, 000 Tons of Plate.

Captain O'Neill, Chief of the Ordnance Bureau of the Navy Department, has for warded to the Sceretary for his approval a form of circular advertising for bids for armor for the battleship Maine and the four monitors authorized last spring, and the three battleships and three armored cruisers authorized by the last Naval appropriation bill. The circular has been drawn with great care and offers the most odvantageous terms for the consideration of any concern which may be willing to undertake the manufacture of armor at the price of $350 per ton, which was the price fixed by the act.

The armor plate companies declined to bid two years ago when a similar price was fixed, and, under the stress of war existent.

by the armor of the ships then under course of construction and those authorized by the act of 1898. The armor for the battleship Maine and the four monitors authorized by that act, for which the price is fixed at 1800, amounting approximately to 18,000 tons, is to be included in this isd, together with about 14,000 tons for the three bastleships and the three armored cruisers authorized in the last act, making a total of about 24,000 tons at a mean cost of about 2350 per ton.

The contract involves about 38,000,000. Although the Krupp process is not specifically methoned, the tests practically call for Krupp armor. Two months are to be allowed in which companies may bid, so that there will be simple time for deliberate and mature consideration of the Government's monored. fixed, and, under the stress of war exigen-

Though not nec-essarily drifting across the Pole, he states, in all probability a ship, float or cask would out by way of Spitzbergen. He suggested the feasibility of the drift casks to ecomplish the drift without risk of life. Henry G. Bryant, president of the Phi'a-ciphia society, had by his efforts in the preparatory work so identified himself with this project that it is now scientifically known as the "Melville-Bryant Drift Cask." Captain Kauts, of the may, represented the society of San Francisco and attended to the shipment of the casks, placing thirty-five on the whaling versits and fifteen on the Bear. Each cask was given a separate number for means of identification. The casks are control-shaped floats, securely made.
